

Social Distancing

With ListenTALK

Problem

We understand how difficult times are for those sheltering in place as well as the challenges companies face with the new social distancing requirements. Communication is essential to moving work forward and accomplishing tasks, which becomes much more difficult when employees are spread out.

Challenge

Many companies are quickly realizing that the same social distancing measures that are keeping their employees healthy are also putting their safety, communication, and productivity at risk. Do not let your COVID-19 prevention measures affect your high safety standards or get in the way of your productivity.

ListenTALK is designed to fit your needs, allowing you, your staff, and your customers, to safely communicate in any environment while maintaining social distancing standards.

Solution

ListenTALK is a mobile two-way communication system, allowing frontline teams to maintain a safe distance while still doing the work required to keep the country running. The wireless system features a sleek, wearable transceiver (combination transmitter/receiver) that enables mobile group communication with the touch of a button. ListenTALK is the long-term solution as people begin re-entering the workforce.

Results

- Communicate clearly, with a minimum 6-foot distance
- Eliminates barriers including distance, face masks, background noise, and hearing loss
- Easy to setup and sanitize between use

“We are finding ListenTALK very useful right now to assist with social distancing while we try to do training on the floor.”
